

Post Assessment Work in Preparation for Final Term

Subject: Religious Studies

| | |
|---------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Key Advice for Exam Preparation / Revision | All three units (Philosophy, Ethics and DCT) of the course will be examined in the mock exams, so preparation must be thorough. Reading is imperative to success. The more you read, the better your outcome will be. Develop a preferred style of revision notes which may include; mind maps, Cornell notes, flash cards, audio notes. Test yourself on everything you revise to ensure you are confident with the content. Remember to use the specification as a check list for topics, key information and scholarly views. It is important that you re-visit material covered in Year 12. |
| Activities to complete | Overview sheets for Philosophy and Ethics. Read, annotate and mark the sample essays from the Zig Zag resource. Check your marks against the official mark. |
| Online Resources | I think, therefore I teach The Panpysycast Philosophy Podcast Peped Philosophical Investigation BBC Moral Maze BBC In Our Time |
| Key Reading | The Green and Blue textbooks for both years of the course are endorsed by the exam board and contain everything on the specification. They are your first port of call. In addition to this, you have the White revision guides for the three units of study. They are an excellent revision tool. Use the pop-up library in EN6 for wide reading. Seek direction from your teacher if needed. The Wider Reading Document and the articles on Teams must continue to be a vital source of reading for you. |
| Link to Exam Board Past Papers | Past Papers from OCR |
| Other | |